FOREWORD

It is a great pleasure to present the annual report for the year 2007-08. Last year we have surely achieved better results in the field of education, empowerment and health. Education was the prime thrust area of SEED. It has sowed seeds of education among habitants of tribal dominated Malkangiri district. Particularly tribal girls, hearing & speech impaired children and child labourers are some target groups of SEED. You would get some details of achievements from this report.

Malkangiri's 'most backward' brand would be vanished within next couple of years through collective action and united war against illiteracy and unconsciousness. SEED is expressing its futuristic view to civil citizens, charities, donors, departments and all civil society organisations. SEED is planning to make Education Complex a model residential school, similar school for dalit girls, special school for adults, vocational training centre for physically challenged and many more. It would generate a glimpse among readers and social thinkers.

Women empowerment through self-help group promotion is also going on like rest parts of India as common and accepted strategy. We have intensively engaged the empowered mass with community health aspects and environment protection.

I am thankful to all individuals and organisations for their financial and moral support at different stages of execution. I express my sincere gratitude to them for creating a better society. My team members' contribution to the process is highly appreciated. I am confident to get cooperation and support from all corners in the coming years,

Sabita Swain
Chairman, SEED

Introduction

Social Education for Environment and Development (SEED), a voluntary organization is formed by a group of social workers and development practitioners in 1991. It works for socio-economic and cultural development of the aboriginal tribe in Malkangiri district, the most remote and underdeveloped districts of Orissa.

The organization, in all its development programmes, emphasizes on generating awareness among the people on their socio-economic and cultural status in the society and sensitizes them to avail their rights and privileges as members of the society. The organization strives to establish social welfare and justice through participatory efforts and planned approach towards development with the active participation of the concerned community (particularly Koya tribe) at all levels of its effort.

SEED is managed by a group of committed and experienced rural development professionals, who extend their services by working with the community in tribal areas. Over a period, the organization is engaged in various developmental activities, especially in the field of Education, Livelihood, Environment, Women Empowerment, Health and Capacity Building etc. of tribal people in Korkunda block of Malkangiri district.

Legal Status

SEED has been registered under the State Societies Registration Act XXI of 1860. The organization is also registered under Foreign Contribution Regulation Act (FCRA) in 2005 and the Regd. No. is 105090006.

Vision

A healthy society, which is ecologically sustainable and empowered to deal with the rising issues to lead a better and qualitative life with access and control over basic minimum facilities for survival in the present trend of development.

Mission

- w Creation of a society free from exploitation
- w Proper utilization of the resources for the development of the poor.
- w Reduce poverty and dependency syndrome.
- w Creation of field for social justice.
- w Eradication of illiteracy and provision for higher education coupled with the transfer of knowledge and skills.
- w Up gradation of environment.
- w Solving local problems and creation of classless society.
- w Lowering of the death rate and enhancing the quality of life.
- w Rehabilitation for the differently abled persons.

Approach

SEED believes in the latent power of the community and hence tries to upgrade and enhance their capacities and skills thus restoring the confidence among them. The organization facilitates an environment that enables each individual in the community to get access as well as control over the common resources. It promotes people's organization and builds up them to stand on their own without depending on external support for long.

Area of Operation

Since the inception SEED has made direct or indirect impact on lives of nearly 100,000 people. Out of the total one lakh population SEED has the direct association with 50,000 people. The organization is working in most remote and backward district of Orissa, namely, Malkangiri that is located at a distance of 750 KM from the state capital.

Target People

The organization has been working for the upliftment of the deprived and underprivileged sections of the society, primarily the Scheduled Tribe, Scheduled Caste and Other Backward Classes. More than ninety percent of the present target population of SEED is ST and SC.

Vulnerable sections of the society, especially, the distressed women, children and bonded laborers, persons with disabilities and landless persons are always prioritized in the interventions undertaken by SEED.

EDUCATION

Education is the mirror of a society. It indicates a country's status in the context of development. But in present scenario, education indicates very poor status of our country. Particularly in Orissa, Malkangiri district is one of the lowest developing regard to education. The people of Koya tribe here are engaging their children in various house works as a part of their traditional practice. It is the only effect of lack of awareness. SEED has taken some committed steps to accelerate the literacy rate and education level in the district since last 10 years.
